INTRODUCTION.

1305064

The manuscript volume of which this is a copy, was formerly for many generations in the possession of the family of Mosley of Ancoats. From them it passed into the library of Sir Thomas Phillipps, baronet, and at the sale in 1898 of a portion of his library it was purchased by the Free Libraries Committee and is now in the Reference Library, Manchester. It is a foolscap folio of paper, and is in the original leather binding. It contains notes of the cases which came before three magistrates of the family of Mosley, namely:—Oswald Mosley, 1616 to his death 1630; Nicholas Mosley, his son, from 1661 to 1672; and Sir Oswald Mosley, baronet, grandson of Nicholas, from 1734 to 1739. In addition to the proceedings at Privy Sessions, there are notes of various other branches of magisterial work, including some administrative business at Quarter Ssssions and Assizes, all of which will be published in this work. There are also a number of forms and lists of magistrates which are incorporated in this introduction. Besides this the volume contains some miscellaneous notes, relating principally to the property of the Mosley family. These will, it is expected, form part of a volume of "Miscellanies" to be issued by the Chetham Society.

In printing I have endeavoured to make a faithful copy of the original manuscript, to the pages of which references are given by means of numbers in square brackets. A few obvious errors have been corrected, and the dates have been reduced to uniformity. With regard to the contractions I have found considerable difficulty, as the original is very carelessly and by no means uniformly marked. I have placed the contraction marks whenever the scribe has used them, but have not inserted them in the very numerous instances where they have been omitted by him. Personal names and place names have throughout been printed with capitals, although in the original the usage varied. The transcript was made for the Free Libraries Committee under the direction of Mr. Charles W. Sutton, the Chief Librarian. It was intended that Mr. Sutton should also edit the volume, but pressure of other engagements prevented him. He has, however, read the proofs and given many valuable suggestions, for which grateful acknowledgments are due.

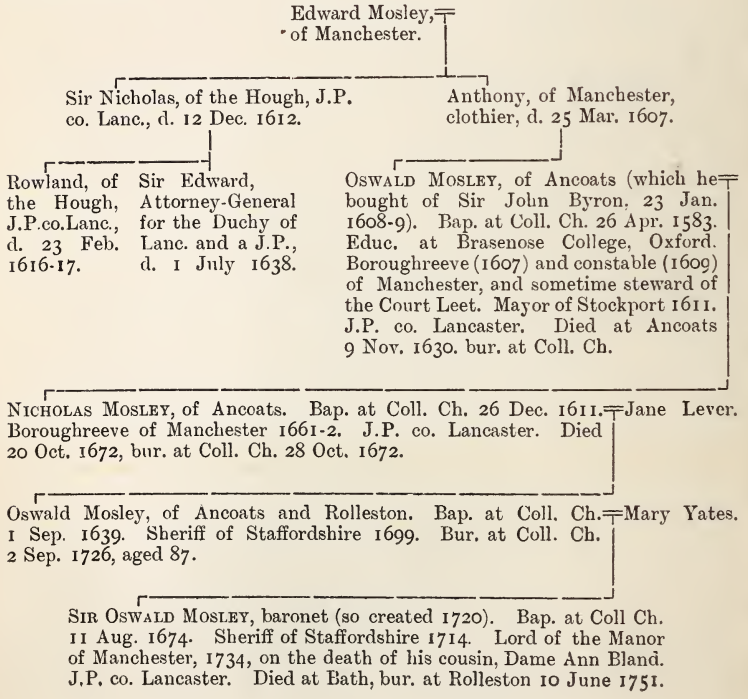
The Mosleys.—The following pedigree will show the relationship of the three Mosleys who formerly owned the MS and who recorded in it the cases which came before them.



Magistrates.—As the present volume of the Record Society only records the cases which came under the notice of Oswald Mosley, of Ancoats, from 1616 to 1622-3, that gentleman is the magistrate most frequently named, but other magistrates occur, John Greenhalgh, Leonard Asshawe, Sir Edmund Trafford, Sir Cecil Trafford, Edmund Prestwich and Edward Holland being apparently, with Mr. Mosley, the most active justices in Salford hundred.

On pp. 7-10 of the MS. are two lists of magistrates in 1615-16, one list being apparently of the quorum. From these two lists the following list is compiled, the quorum being marked with an asterisk.

Oswald Mosley, esq.

Oswald Mosley's record begins in April 1616, and as his name is the last on the list we may presume that this list of magistrates represents the commission practically as it existed in April 1616. There are several magistrates named in this volume whose names do not occur in this list, and who presumably were added to the commission of the peace after 1616. Amongst these is Sir Cecil Trafford.

Coroners.—On p. 11 of the MS. is a list of coroners in the county of Lancaster, which does not, however, give the hundreds for which they served. The date is apparently 1616, and the names are Thomas Covell, John Bymson, John Cunliffe, Richard Medowcrofte and Richard Lancaster, gentlemen.

Constables.—Two classes of constables are named. The High Constables, were appointed by the magistrates at their annual meetings, the retiring High Constables submitting a list of six persons from whom the justices selected two or more. The High Constables had charge of a whole hundred, they collected many of the rates, and the Petty Constables were to some extent under their control. The High Constables were all men of good position, and were of the same class as the magistrates. In 1620 James Chetham of Crumpsall, elder brother of Humphry Chetham the Founder, was one of the High Constables for Salford Hundred.

Petty Constables, who were appointed for each township, were men of a considerably lower social position. Service was compulsory (p. 128) and the duties were onerous. The constable had to take an active and personal share in the pursuit and arrest of criminals, and he appears to have been the actual collector of the rates. The "Manchester Constables Accounts" and the orders (p. 16, 17, 53, etc.), show the diversity of functions which the constables had to perform and the penalties for neglect of duty. Mr. Mosley gives the form of a "precept for constables not executing their office aright."

Osw: Mosley, esq^{r}, &c., to the constables of the township of M: greeting whereas complaint is made unto me by the constables of D: in the County aforesaid: that divers faults have been committed by you in the execution of your office these are therefore to command, &c., that you be and personally appear at the next general Sessions of the peace holden within the hundred of Salford, then and there to answer unto such things as shall be objected against you concerning the execution of your said office. Hereof fail you not as you will answer the contrary at your perils. Given, &c.

Duties of the Magistrates.—"The Use of the Law," attributed to Francis Bacon, although probably not written by him,* contains a contemporary account of the duties of the magistrates in the reign of James I:—

"They are appointed to keep four sessions every year; that is to say, every quarter one. This session is a sitting time to assemble and dispatch the affairs of their commission. They have power to hear and determine in their sessions all felonies, breaches of the peace, contempts and trespasses, so far as to fine the offender to the crown, but not to award recompence to the party grieved. They are to suppress riots and tumults; to restore possessions forcibly taken away, to examine all felons apprehended and brought before them; to see impotent poor people or maimed soldiers provided for according to the laws; and rogues, vagabonds, and beggars punished. They are to license and suppress alehouses, badgers of corn and victuals, and to punish forestallers, regrators, and engrossers.

Through these, in effect, run all the county services to the crown; as taxation of subsidies, mustering men, arming them, and levying forces by commission or precept from the King. Any of these justices, upon oath taken by a man that he standeth in fear that another will beat him, or kill him, or burn his house, are to send for the party by warrant of attachment directed to the sheriff or constable, and they are to bind the party with sureties by recognizance to the King to keep the peace, and also to appear at the next sessions of the peace. At which next sessions, when every justice of peace hath there delivered in all his recognizances so taken, then the parties are called and the cause of binding to the peace examined; and both parties being heard, the whole bench is to determine as they see cause, either to continue the party still bound, or to discharge him. These justices at the sessions are attended with the constables and bailiffs of all hundreds and liberties within the county, and with the Sheriff or his deputy, to be employed as occasion shall serve in executing the precepts and directions of the court. . . .

The justices of peace are many in every county. And to them are brought all traitors, felons, and other malefactors of any sort upon their first apprehension in the county; and that justice to whom they are brought examineth them, and heareth their accusation, but judgeth not upon it; only if he find the suspicion but light, then he taketh bond with sureties of the accused to appear either at the next assizes, if it be matter of treason or felony, or else at the quarter sessions, if it be concerning riot, misbehaviour, or some other small offence. And he also bindeth to appear there and give testimony and prosecute the accusation all the accusers and witnesses; and so setteth the party at large. And at the assizes or sessions, as the case falleth out, he certifieth the recognizances taken of the accused, accusers, and witnesses, who being all there called, and appearing, the cause against the accused is dealt in according to law for his clearing or condemning.

But if the party apprehended seem, upon pregnant matter in the accusation and examination, to the justice to be guilty, and the offence heinous, or the offender taken with the mainour, then the justice is to commit the party by his warrant, called a mittimus, directed to the gaoler of the common gaol of the county, there to remain until the assizes come. And then the justice must certify his accusation and examination, and return the recognizance taken for appearance and prosecution of the witnesses; so as the judges at the assizes may, when they come, readily proceed with him as the law prescribeth."

This summary of the duties of the magistrates almost ignores a most important part of the functions of the justices of the peace, that of the administration of local government, which in the time of the Stuarts was largely in the hands of the magistrates, whose orders and decisions at their meetings in the Assizes week at Quarter Sessions form perhaps the most interesting portion of the Mosley MS.

Criminal jurisdiction.—The working of the criminal jurisdiction is only shown in the early stages of most of the cases. The aggrieved person applied to the magistrate for a warrant or precept against the offender. The precept was directed to the constable or constables of the township in which the offender lived. Mr. Mosley gives the following form which is in English, although the record would suggest that this and most of the other warrants were in Latin, as the phrase used is almost invariably "p^{r}cept pro pace et precipue &c."

Oswald Mosley, esquire, to the constables of M. greeting. Forasmuch as A.B. of E, etc., hath come before me & taken his corporal oath that he is afraid that one C.D. of G. in the county aforesaid, laborer, will beat, wound, maim or kill him or procure the same to be done (by reason hee hath threatened so to do) * And hath thereupon craved surety of the peace against the said C.D. These are therefore in his said Majesty's name to command and charge you that forthwith upon the receipt hereof you cause the said C.D. to come before me or some other of my fellow Justices of the peace in the same County to find sufficient security and mainprise as well for his personal appearance at the next general sessions of the peace to be holden within the hundred of Salford as also in the mean season for the peace to be kept towards our said sovereign lord the King, all his liege people, and especially towards the said A.B. And if he, the said C.D., shall refuse thus to do that, then without any further warrant you him safely convey or cause to be conveyed unto his Majesty's gaol at Lancaster, there to remain until he shall willingly do the same. And see that you certifiy your doings in the premises at the Sessions aforesaid, bringing then thither this precept with you, whereof fail you not at your perils. Given the 3 day, &c.

A Latin form is given by W. West in his "Symboleographie," 1647 (Pars I, lib. 2, sec. 577):—

"Robertus Moore armig', unus Justic' dom' Reginæ ad pacem in com̃ præd' conservand' assignat' Vic' com' pred': Necnon

The next step was for the constable to bring the offender before the magistrate. Then with friends the offender entered into recognizances to appear at the next sessions, and in the meantime to keep the peace. Mr. Mosley gives a form "for good abearing," but it does not appear to be complete. In West's "Symboleographie," 1647 (Pars I, lib. 2, sec. 104), is given the full form in Latin :—

"Memorandum quod. 5 die mensis Julii Anno regni Elizab. &c. xxxvi. veneṙ coram nobis E.N. & W.S. &c. quod idem R.G. personaliter comparebit coram Justiciar̃ dictæ dominæ Reginæ ad pacem &c. ad proximam generalem Sessionem &c. Et qd ipse interim se bene gerat erga dictam dominam Reginam, & cunctum populum suum, & precipue erga I.B. de C. &c. Et quod ipse non inferet nec inferri procurabit, per se, nec per alios, damnum aliquod seu gravamen præfat' I.B. seu alicui de populo ipsius domin' Reginæ de corporibus suis per insidias, insultus, seu ꝑaliquo alio modo, q̄ in lesionem seu ꝑtubationem pacis dict̃ d'næ Regin, cedere valeat quovismodo: viz. uterque predict' H.C. and I.S. sub pœna C. li. contingat præfat' R.G. in aliquo præmissorum deficere, & inde legitimo modo convinci &c. In cujus rei &c."

If the security was satisfactory, the magistrate might grant a "supersedeas," of which Mr. Mosley gives this form:—

Osw. Mosley &c. greeting. Forasmuch as J.G. of C. &c. hath personally come before me and found sufficient security and mainprise that is to say A.B. and C.D. either of which have undertaken for the said J.G. under the pain of x pounds and he the said J.G. hath undertaken for himself under the pain of xx pounds that he the said J.G. shall well and truly keep the peace of our said sovereign Lord: towards our said sovereign lord and all his liege people, and especially towards S.N. of L., &c. These are therefore in his said Majesty's name to command and charge you that forthwith upon the receipt hereof you utterly forbear and surcease to arrest, take or imprison or by any means (for the said occasion) to molest him the said J.G., and if you have (for the said occasion and for none other) taking [taken] or imprisoned him the said J.G. that then without any further delay you do cause him to be delivered and set at liberty. Hereof fail you not at your utmost perils. Given, &c.

Bail seems to have been accepted in most cases, even when so serious a charge as that of rape was made. On Jan. 26, 1618-9, a precept was issued against Thomas Wilkinson for this offence. The examination took place before Mr. Mosley on Feb. 2. Wilkinson was bound over to appear at the Assizes, and the complainant was bound over to prosecute (p. 80). In a very few cases the accused was committed to the gaol. Mr. Mosley gives the form of a "mittimus for felony."

"Osw: Mosley, esq^{r}, &c., to the keeper of his Majesty's gaol at Lancaster greeting I send you herewith all the body of A.B. late of G: labourer, brought before me this present day and charged with the felonious taking away of &c. And therefore these are in his said Majesty's name to command, &c., that immediately you receive the said A.B. and him safely keep in your said gaol until he shall be thence delivered by due order of law whereof fail not as you will answer, &c."

A felon, or person accused of felony, committed to gaol might be sent thither at his own expense. Mr. Mosley gives the form of a "precept to make sale of the goods of a felon for his conveying to the gaol":—

"Osw. Mosley, &c., to the constables of M: greeting. Forasmuch as A.B. of, &c., was by me committed to his Majesty's gaol at Lancaster yesterday being the xth of August, there to remain until he shall be thence delivered by due order of law. These are, &c., that immediately upon the receipt hereof you sell such and so much of the goods and chattels of the said A.B. as shall amount unto the sum of xxiiii*s.* to satisfy and pay the charges for his conveying and sending to the gaol and the charges also of such as shall be appointed to guard him to such gaol and shall so guard him thither the appraisement of the said goods and chattels to be made by four of the honest inhabitants of the parish or township where such goods and chattels shall remain and be. And the overplus of the money which shall be made thereof to be delivered to the said A.B. Fail not herein at your perils, &c."

The same rule applied to those who refused to enter into recognizances as we see from the case of Robert Bardsley (p. 135), who refused to find security. He was committed to gaol, and a precept was issued to the constables of Ashton to distrain on his goods. He did not, however, allow the matter to go to extremities, but appeared the same day with his two securities.

In many cases of the prosecutor had to enter into recognizances to prosecute at the Assizes or Sessions, and the witnesses were bound over to give evidence.

For all these recognizances the magistrates or their clerks were entitled to charge fees. In the MS. these are written in cipher in the margin. In printing these an italic type letter, approximating to the shape of the cipher, has been used, but no key to the cipher has been found.

The subsequent history of many of the persons named in these records may be found in the "Manchester Constables Accounts."

Below, in alphabetical order, are notes of the various matters recorded in this volume, with the forms which Mr. Mosley inserted in the MS. for his own guidance.

Alehouses.—Alehouses, or tippling houses as they were called, were a constant source of trouble to the magistrates. The licensing system was in full vogue, but there are instances of persons selling ale without a license. Ralph Bradshaw enters into recognizances that he will not "keep ale nor beer to sell nor a tippling house until he shall be licensed" (p. 6). Mr. Mosley gives the following form of a "mittimus for one brewing without a license":—

"Whereas A.B. of C. in the said County hath obstinately and upon his own authority taken upon him to keep a common alehouse or tippling house and to sell ale or beer in C. aforesaid not being thereunto admitted and licensed and contrary to our commandment. These are therefore in his Majesty's name, &c., that forthwith after the receipt hereof you apprehend and take the body of the said A.B. and him convey or cause to be conveyed unto his Majesty's gaol at Lancaster, there to remain without bail or mainprise by the space of 3 days, and after that time until the said A.B. shall enter into recognizance with 2 sureties according to the statute in that case provided that he shall not hereafter keep any common alehouse or tippling house or use common selling of ale or beer and herein see you fail not, &c."

When an alehouse keeper received his license he entered into recognizances, of which Mr. Mosley gives the following "condition":—

"The condition of this recognizance, &c., is such that if the above bounden A.B. shall keep and maintain good order in his house and shall not suffer any unlawful games to be used in his said house or liberties thereunto belonging nor harbour any rogues, vagabonds, &c., contrary to the form of the statute then this recognizance [to be void]."

The license was then granted. Mr. Mosley gives this form:—

"Memorandum that 9no die Augusti, &c., A.B. de C. in Com̃ D. alehousekeeper, came before us and entered into recognizances with sufficient sureties to his Majesty that he shall keep and maintain good order in his house and shall not suffer any unlawful games to be used within his said house or liberties thereof nor harbour any rogues, &c., contrary to the statute, whereupon he is by us licensed to keep a common alehouse or tipling house or to use common selling of ale or beer till further order be taken therein

by us, Osw. Mosley, &c."

Breaches of the conditions of the license was not uncommon, and elaborate instructions were given to magistrates in 1618 (p. 51, 52, 58, 59) for regulating alehouses and for punishing those who broke the assize of ale, that is those who sold ale at more than one penny a quart. The assize of ale was frequently broken, and there are long lists of those who were fined for this offence (pp. 118-121 and 170-177). In 1620 alehouse keepers whose houses were disorderly were ordered to be imprisoned, to find sureties for good behaviour, and not to sell ale or beer again (p. 114). Mr. Mosley gives the following "warrant to levy 20*s.* of their goods who are breakers of the assize":—

"Whereas all and every persons whose names are hereunder written being innkeepers, alehouse keepers or victuallers within the said town of M. have broken the assize of ale or beer, that is to say have uttered and sold less ale then one full ale quart for one penny as is proved against them severally by the oaths of two or more witnesses taken before us or the one of us. There are therefore to command and charge you the constables of M. and churchwardens of the parish of M., to levy by distress of the goods of every the same persons the several sums of xx*s.* a piece by them and every of them forfeited for their said offence for the use of the poor of the parish of Manchester And for want of satisfaction within 6 days after the several distresses taken that you cause such distress or distresses to bee presently apprised and sold rendering the surplusage or remainder thereof to the party of whom the distress was taken and that you certify your doings in the premises or the want of sufficient distress unto us or the one of us within 20 days after the date hereof under and upon the pains and penalties upon you and every of you making default to be inflicted according to the statute in that case lately made and provided."

Apprentices.—An apprentice who left his master was arrested, a precept being issued, on the application of the master, to the constables of the township where the apprentice resided. Mr. Mosley gives the following form of "a precept for a servant departing without a license":—

"Osw. Mosley, &c., whereas A.B. of, &c., tanner, hath come before me and made his complaint that C.D., apprentice, &c., unto the said A.B., in the said trade, &c., hath departed out of the service of the said A.B., his term not being expired without the liking and consent of the said A.B,, and contrary to the statute in that case made and provided. These are therefore, &c., to command, &c., that you bring before me the said C.D. to show cause why he should not serve his said master according to his said retainour, as also to do and suffer that which by law is due unto him for his contempt in that behalf. Whereof fail not, &c."

Bastardy.—Affiliation cases formed a considerable proportion of the work of the magistrates. It is not easy to follow the exact routine in these cases, but apparently the mother made her complaint before the magistrate, and if the child was born she was supported by witnesses who testified as to what she had said in the time of her travail. A warrant was then issued to the constables to arrest the putative father, if, as seems generally to have been the case, there was fear that he might abscond. Mr. Mosley gives this form "for getting a bastard":—

"Oswald Mosley, &c., to the constables of A., &c., greeting. Whereas I am credibly informed that A.B., &c., hath begotten a bastard child on the body of C.D., &c., which child is not yet born, and that it is feared the said A.B. will run away before the birth of the said child so as there will be no putative father at the birth of the said child these are therefore, &c., to command and charge you that forthwith upon the receipt hereof you cause the said A.B. to come before me or some other of my fellow Justices of the peace, &c., to find sufficient security and mainprise as well for his personal appearance at the next general sessions, &c., there to stand to and abide such further order as the Justices of the peace there present shall set down for the sustentation of the said child, &c."

Both parents might be called upon to enter into recognizances to appear at the next Quarter Sessions.

The routine is illustrated by the case of Isabel Worrall. On 10 Oct., 1620, a precept was issued at her instance against Wm. Crompton (p. 128) On Dec. 6 Crompton was ordered by two magistrates to support the child, but refusing to agree to the order, he was bound in £20 to appear at the Sessions (p. 134). What happened to Crompton there we are not told, but an order was made that Worrall should be sent to the House of Correction for 12 months, and a mittimus was issued accordingly (p. 147). From the "Constables' Accounts" we find that Isabel was taken to the House of Correction at a cost of 5*s.* to the town.

From two or three cases it appears that the Quarter Sessions ordered the father to pay 26*s.* 8*d.* yearly for the support of the child and had to enter into recognizances to do this, but there is one curious case (p. 90) where the father had custody of the child and the mother was ordered to pay 28*s.* yearly towards its support, and the father had to enter into recognizances that he would keep the child so that it would not be chargeable to the parish. From the "Constables' Accounts" we learn that the order to support the child was not the end of the matter for the parents. John Newton was ordered to pay 26*s.* 8*d.* yearly (p. 84), but he and Ryder, the woman, were both flogged "by justices appointment at the sessions."

House of Correction.—In the period covered by this volume the most important administrative matter seems to have been the establishment of a House of Correction. By an act passed 1597 (43 Eliz. cap. 4) the magistrates assembled in Quarter Sessions were enabled to cause one or more Houses of Correction to be erected within their county or city. Lancashire appears to have been slow to avail itself of the powers of the act, and it appears to have been under pressure from above that in 1616 the justices of Salford hundred decided to erect a House of Correction for that hundred, and fixed on Bury as the locality (p. 9), made various orders for its proper conduct (p. 10 and 11), and levied a rate to cover the expense (p. 12-13). Mr. Mosley gives the form of the precept to the constables.

Osw: Mosley and [another magistrate] J.P., &c., these are in his Majesty's name to command and charge you that forthwith upon the receipt hereof you collect and levy or cause to be collected and levied within your said township and hamlets thereunto belonging the sum of x*li.* taxed and imposed upon your said township and hamlets by his Majesty's Justices of the peace in the open sessions of the peace holden at Manchester in the county of Lancaster the xjth day of May, 1617, for and towards a house of correction, &c., together with necessary engines and implements and raising of a stock, as also for entertainment of a master or governor thereof for the whole year according to the &c., together also by and with the command of his Majesty's justices of assize at the &c., which said sum levied as aforesaid you shall make undelayed payment unto us or [one of us], &c., at Manchester, &c."

The rate was collected (p. 23), but nothing further was done. In March 1617-8 at the assembly of Justices at Lancaster the scheme of a separate House of Correction for Salford hundred was abandoned, and it was decided to have only one House of Correction for the whole county. Preston was the locality chosen, and a committee was appointed to find a suitable house (p. 38). On 18 August, 1618, the Court fined the Justices for not having erected a House of Correction (p. 49), and on the following day the justices levied a rate on the whole county (p. 46), and agreed as to the erection of the house (p. 47). In 1619 a master or governor was appointed, and the very interesting bargain made with him is given in full (pp. 86-88), and by March 1620 (p. 109) the building and furnishing appear to have been complete. In August, 1621, the master reported that the House already wanted repairing.

Recusants.—Mr. Mosley gives, under date 1618 (p. 49), a series of "articles and orders to be observed for the due execution of the statutes concerning recusants, alehouses, drunkenness," etc. Probably these emanated from the Government. They are a series of questions which suggest that the Justices had been neglecting their duty. A similar series of "Directions" (p. 57) are obviously from the judges of Assize, who urge great strictness in dealing with recusants, and in March, 1619-20, the Justices are threatened with a fine of £100 if they do not cause every recusant to take the oath of allegiance (p. 144). The only result, so far as shown in this volume, is the list on pp. 82, 83, which gives the names of a few persons who took the oath of allegiance and of a larger number who refused. The latter list contains the names of members of some well known Roman Catholic families. Mr. Mosley gives the following form of a precept to the high constables concerning recusants :—

"A.B.C.D., &c., justices of the peace of our, &c., to E.F.G.H., &c., gentlemen, high constables of the hundred of Salford greeting. We command you and every of you that you give summons and warning to all and every the persons whose names are hereunder written that they and every one of them be and personally appear before us upon Monday being the xiiith of this instant Oct. next by nine of the clock of the same day then and there to take the oath of allegiance. And that you give summons and warning to all and every the petty constables and churchwardens within your divisions that they and every of them be likewise before us at Manchester the said xiiith day of Oct. to present the names of all the persons inhabiting within their several divisions which have been absent from the church and chapels where they be churches : for iii sabbath days as before the said xiiith day of Oct. with the names of all their children above nine years old, and the names of all there servants, retainors and sojourners in their houses that are recusants, and for how many months they have kept such servants, sojourners and retainors which be recusants, and also that you and every of you be likewise before us at the day and place aforesaid to answer how and after what manner you have executed this our precept in the execution whereof fail not at your perils. Given at M., &c."

The following form "for absence from the church on Sundays in time of divine service," which Mr. Mosley gives was directed to the recusant personally, who was ordered to appear before the magistrate, presumably to explain why he had failed to attend church, and if the explanation was not satisfactory to receive the punishment.

"Osw. Mosley, esqr., &c. Forasmuch as it is proved unto me that you A.B., &c., two several Sundays viđ the 1 and 8th of April last or either of them did not repair to any church, chapel or any other place appointed for common prayer nor there did hear common prayer according to the statute in that behalf made in the first year of the reign of the late Queen Elizabeth, but did forbear the same contrary to the said statute and not having any lawful or reasonable excuse to be absent and that by force of the statute in the behalf made and provided I am authorised to call you before me. Therefore these are by force of the said statute to command you to be and personally appear before me at my house at Ancoats upon Monday next not failing hereof at your perils. Given, &c."

If the recusant refused to pay the fine of 12*d.* for each offence, the next step was the issue of a precept "for the churchwardens to distrain their goods (being absent not having a just excuse) if they refuse to pay," as follows:—

"Osw. Mosley, &c., to D.E. churchwarden of the parish of F. greeting. Forasmuch as by the oath of witness proof is made unto me that the persons hereafter named who dwell in the same parish being subjects of this Realm of England upon the two Sundays last being the 1 and 8 of this instant April or either of them did not resort or repair to the parish church of F. nor to any other church, chapel or any other place appointed for common prayer nor there did hear divine service according to the statute made in that behalf in the first year of the reign of the late Queen Elizabeth but did forbear the same contrary to the form of the said statute not having any lawful or reasonable excuse to be absent And for that the said persons being by me the said Justice called before me did not make any sufficient excuse or proof thereof to the satisfaction of me the said Justice of peace. Therefore by force of the statute in this behalf lately made and provided, I do hereby give unto you the said churchwardens warrant to levy severally and respectively for the defaults aforesaid by distress and sale of the goods of the persons hereafter named the several sums of money hereafter imposed upon them or set down together with their names vid every several sum of the goods of the person upon whom or together with whose name the same is imposed or set down to be imployed to and for the use of the poor of that parish rendering to every one of the same persons the overplus of the money raised of the goods of that person so to be sold according to the form of the statute, hereof certify me xvi^{to} May at your perils. Given, &c.

And if the recusant refused to pay and had no goods, there was a further resource of civilization in the shape of "a mittimus for an offender by absence from church that refuse to pay and have not whereon to distrain."

"Osw. Mosley, esqr., &c., to the keeper of the prison, &c., greeting. Forasmuch as it is proved unto me by oath that A.B.C.D., &c., whom I send you by the bearers hereof two several Sundays vidlt xvi^{mo} and xx3^{to} of April last past or either of them did not repair to any church, chapel or any other place appointed for common prayer according to the statute in that behalf made in the first year of the reign of the late Queen Elizabeth. But did forbear the same contrary to the statute not having any lawful or reasonable excuse to be absent, and that upon warrant by me made for the levying of xii*d.* for either of the said defaults upon the goods of the said offenders which so made default as aforesaid there was default of distress so as sufficient distress of the goods of the said offenders cannot be found whereupon to levy the said sums. These therefore are in his Majesty's name to command you to receive into your custody in the said prison the bodies of the said A.B.C.D., there to remain severally until payment be made of the said several sums by them severally forfeited for their said defaults by force of the statute aforesaid the said sums to be employed to and for the use of the poor of the parish of A. according to the form of the statute not failing hereof at your perils. Given, &c."

Rogues and Vagabonds.—These only occasionally come before the magistrates, the constables being quite competent to deal summarily with them. A Devonshire rogue with the historic name of Courtney, and with the letter R branded on his shoulder, was committed to Lancaster, and a "dangerous rogue" was sent to the House of Correction (p. 104). Orders for the treatment of wandering rogues are included in the agreement concerning the House of Correction (p. 11). The justices were expected to cause privy searches to be made. Mr. Mosley gives two forms, the first being the form of precept to the constables to make a privy search, and the second ordering the constables to distrain on the goods of persons who had harboured rogues and vagabonds:—

We the King's Majesty's Justices of the peace and quorum within the county of Lancaster whose names be subscribed to the constables of D. greeting, these are in his Majesty's name to command and charge you that upon the ix° day of this instant April in the night season taking unto you sufficient aid and assistance of your township you make a general privy search within your said township and liberties thereof for the finding out of all rogues vagabonds wandering and disordered persons and such as be persons unknown and suspicious to be dangerous and to apprehend all such as you shall find in your said search and to cause them and every of them with their harbourers to be brought before us and others his Majesty's Justices of the peace at Manchester upon the day then next following then and there to be dealt withall as the law in that case provideth And that then and there also you do give an account and reckoning upon oath in writing and under the hand of the minister of your parish what rogues, vagabonds wandering and disordered persons you have apprehended in your said search and how many others have been by you punished since the last privy search. And likewise that you give your attendance at the time and place prefixed as you will answer the contrary at your perils given at Manchester the 5th day of December, 1618. By us, Leoñ Asshawe, Osw. Mosleye.

"Edmund Trafford, K^t, and Osw. Mosley, esqr., two of his Majesty's Justices of the peace, &c., to the constable of D. greeting Forasmuch as this day upon lawful proof [viz. the confession of the parties offending or proof of two witnesses] and conviction before us it appeareth unto us that A.B. of C. husbandman, seeing and knowing D.E., & F.G. to resort unto his house being rogues vagabonds and sturdy beggars, to beg gather or receive alms. And them did not apprehend or carry or cause to be apprehended or carried to the next constable to receive such condign punishment as the law in that case provideth, but did harbour and lodge them the said D.E.F. and G. Therefore these are (by virtue of the statute made in the first year of the King's Majesty's reign that now is for the continuance and explanation of the statute made in 39° Elizabeth, intituled an Act for punishment of rogues vagabonds and sturdy beggars) to authorise and command you to distrain the said A.B. his goods and chattels, and to make sale of such and so much thereof as will amount unto the sum of x*s*. for his contempt in the premises, and if he or any other do disobey or withstand you in the execution hereof that then you do forthwith cause him and every of them so disobeying and withstanding to be brought before us at Manchester upon the viiith day of April next ensuing by ten of the clock in the forenoon of the same day to receive such punishment as is due to the disturbers of the statute, at which time and place we do likewise require your attendance with certificate of your proceeding herein without fail not at your peril. Given, &c."

Sunday observance.—In 1616 orders for the observance of Sunday were made by the justices (p. 15). Sunday trading was prohibited, excepting the sale of necessary victuals, and butchers were not to sell any flesh after the second peal to morning prayer, all householders were to close their doors and the inhabitants were to go to church; if any person was found in an alehouse during divine service the alehouse was to "bee putte downe and thenceforth not to be lycensed agayne," and so on. The constables and churchwardens were to see to the carrying out of these orders, and the justices were to see that the constables did their duty. The list of games which these orders prohibited has written in the margin, in a later hand, the words "lawfull upon Sondaies by the King's declaracon."

This refers, of course, to the famous "Book of Sports," and it is, perhaps, owing to the "Book of Sports" that this volume contains so few cases of breach of these regulations.

Of the "Book of Sports" Mr. Mosley gives a copy which differs to some extent from the printed versions, notably in the date, for while the "Book of Sports" (as printed in Axon's "Lancashire Gleanings," p. 57, and Govett's "King's Book of Sports," p. 35) is dated Greenwich 24 May, 16 James I (1618), the version given by Mr. Mosley is dated Gerards Bromley 27 Aug., 15 James I (1617). Mr. Mosley's version is given below:—

Taxation.—There are a number of items relating to the levying of taxes. "The Ox money" or the "money for provision of oxen for the King's household" was a feudal "purveyance and provision for the King," which having become both irritating to the public and unprofitable to the King, was abolished by 12 Chas. II., cap. 24.

In 1617-18 the collectors of ox money were ordered to make undelayed payment (p. 38). In August 1618 Mr. Peter Marsh of Wigan was appointed receiver of the ox money (p. 47), and two or more collectors were appointed for each hundred (p. 48). The collectors issued a precept (p. 61) to the constables of each township to collect within his township the proportion for which it was assessed (p. 60). Although the collectors were appointed for each year, the record gives those of two years only (pp. 48, 151).

Another tax of which frequent mention is made is one for the relief of maimed soldiers and mariners (43 Eliz., cap. 3), and of the prisoners in the King's Bench and Marshalsea (43 Eliz., cap. 2). Treasurers for "maymed souldiers" were appointed in 1617-8 (p. 38), and in 1620-1 (p. 141), and Mr. Mosley gives the form of a precept for the collection of the tax.

Osw: Mosley, esquire, one of the King's Majesty's Justices of peace within the county of Lancaster and Treasurer for this present year for the hundreds of Salford, Derby and Lonsdale in the said County to A.B.C.B. and D.C., high constables within the said hundred of Salford greeting. These are to will and require you and nevertheless to command and charge you that you collect and levy or cause to be collected and levied by the churchwardens and petty constables of the several parishes hereunder written the several sums taxed upon their said parishes for or towards the necessary relief of soldiers and mariners and prisoners of the King's Bench and Marshalsey according to the statute in that case made and provided, and that you make undelayed payment of the said sums to me or my deputies at the next general Sessions holden within your said hundred of Salford aforesaid in and upon the first day of the Sessions by ten of the clock in the aforenoon of the same day and hereof fail not upon the pain and penalty in and by the said statute to be imposed upon you for your default. Given at Manchester, &c."

There are two or three orders that 40*s.* per annum shall be paid to maimed soldiers. In one case the old soldier was to have 5 marks on condition that he should "depart this countie and bee noe further chargeable or burdensome to this same countie."

For the subsidy of 1621 "commissioners for taxation of the first payment of the second subsidy" and collectors of the subsidy were appointed (p. 152). Money for local purposes was raised as required.

The principal local expenditure appears to have been for the repair of the bridges and the erection of the House of Correction. Crosford and other bridges are named, and in each case the charge seems to have been on the whole county (p. 116). When a bridge needed repairing the necessary sum was ordered to be collected. Collectors (usually the High Constables) were appointed, and overseers and supervisers (not necessarily justices) were named to see the work properly done (p. 48). Several difficulties seem to have arisen in connection with the collection of the bridge money and other taxes. Some of the townships refused to pay on the pretence that they were exempt. The claims of Altcar and of Childwall were denied by justices in 1620 (p. 110), and the collectors were ordered to distrain. Occasionally the constables, as for instance those of Gorton in 1616 (p. 1), neglected to pay, and occasionally the collectors failed to account for the money collected (p. 110). The justices zealously protected the inhabitants from the "Clerk of the market" who had attempted to levy fines and amerciaments (p. 111), and from persons who attempted to levy tolls for crossing bridges repaired at the charge of the county (p. 142).

Exāīacons taken at Manchester iij^tio^ die Septembris† 1620 before Edm Prestwich and Osw Mosley esq^rs^ &c.

Ellen wife of Robert Held of Manchester husb : informeth &c that on Mundaie the xxv^th^ of Sept last Robert Ouldham came into the howse of one Thomas Maddocke where also this informer dwelleth and earnestlie requested her to fetch him a pot of ale w^ch^ at his importunitie shee did and att her returne the said Ouldham sent awaie the children w^ch^ were then come from the schoole unto their mother and also sent this inform^r^ to fetch him a penieworth of nutts w^ch^ when shee brought hee tooke at her and went his waie but conc^r^ninge the taking of the monie or breakinge of the Chest shee understood nothing untill the wife of the said Maddocke was come & found the same &c.

* "Stealing" erased.

† Sept. probably an error for Oct., as the first deposition refers to Sept. 25.

Margrett wife of Thomas Maddocke of Manchr husb: informeth &c that on Mundaie the 25th of September last past about 4 of the clocke in the afternoone there was taken out of a chest in the dwelling howse of the sd Maddocke 58s in monie in a purse there beinge this informr at that time being out of the same howse And at her returne shee ꝑceiving the said Chest to bee broken open shee inquired who had beene in the said howse in her absence and one Ellen wife of Robert Held who dwelleth in the same howse said that one Robert Ouldham came to the same howse and sent her out for a 1d of ale and that shee returning quicklie againe hee sent her out for a 1d of nutts And this informers fower yonge Children also came unto her where shee was workinge and said that Robert Ouldham came unto their howse & bade them goe unto their mother wch caused this informr to suspect the said Ouldham to have broken the said chest and taken out the monie whereuppon this informr repaired unto the said Ouldham & accused him of the said facte butt hee constantlie denied the same neverthelesse this informer ꝑcuring a warrant to apprehend the said Ouldham and to bring him before some Justice of peace to bee exaïed the said Ouldham did avoid and flee so as the Constables of Manchester could not apprhend him.

Thomas Maddocke prd saith that the said some of 58s being taken out of his chest and haveing a suspiĉon of Rob Ouldham by reason of the report of Elen wife of Robt Heald (as in the informaĉon of Margrett his wife is set downe) this informr ꝑcured a warrant to the constab of Manchester to apprehend the said Ouldham and to bring him to bee exaïed before some Justice of peace but the Const of Manchestr could not find the said Ro: Ouldham dureing 3 daies for that it was reported the said Ouldham was gone towards Irelande yet in that time one Willm Ouldham father to the said Robt, Thom Tomson Mr Potto* & Mr Cudworth the younger treated wth this informr to rest satisfied and his monie should bee conveied into his chest againe so this informer on Fridaie morninge did seeke in the said chest & there found his monie tied in a liñen Cloath but not the purse that was taken awaie And further saith that the monie w^ch^ was conveied into his chest was not as hee thinketh the same that was taken thence for that there was therein 2 peeces of gold the one of xx^s^ thoth^r^ xj^s^ but the monie that was taken thence was all in silver.

Rich: Harrison servant unto Ro: Ouldham prd informeth &c that on Thursdaie last being the 28^t^ of Sept: his said m^r^ sent for him unto the howse of one Tho Dickonson in the Deansgate and there delivered unto this informer a purse w^th^ monie therein & bade him keepe the same & tell no bodie thereof but give it backe to him when hee askt for it neverthelesse this inform^r^ showed the purse forthw^th^ to divers ꝑsons w^ch^ being tould unto the said Robert Ouldham hee sent for this inform^r^ and tooke the said purse from him againe and did strike this inform^r^ uppon the face because hee had showed the same.
